Halifax, N. S., Nov. 24.—Papers for the extradition of Leo Koeretz, wanted in Chicago for alleged land fraud swindling, were granted here today by Judge Wallace in county court. The authorities said Koeretz admitted that a prima facie case existed against him in Chicago, that he waived all his rights under extradition proceedings and said he hoped the officers would hurry in getting him back to the United States.

Koeretz was arrested in a hotel here last night after a world wide search of almost a year. A $10,000 reward had been offered for his arrest. He was said to have fled Chicago last December with a satchel of money alleged to have been procured in illegal land operation. He appeared here a few days later, purchased a country estate, grew a beard and became known to his neighbors as a cultured and wealthy gentleman of leisure.

Koeretz had removed his beard when he appeared in court today.

BULLETIN

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Halifax, N. S., Nov. 24.—Leo Koeretz, alleged $2,000,000 land fraud swindler of Chicago, for whom a world-wide search has been conducted for more than a year, is in the hands of the law.

He has waived extradition and will be taken back to Chicago by two assistant state's attorneys who arrested him in a hotel here last night.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 24.—Leo Koeretz, "the king of swindlers" and "peer of all confidence men," will be returned here the latter part of this week, or soon thereafter to explain the mysteries of his disappearance with millions of dollars of prominent Chicagoans and where he had given him funds to invest in a mythical Bayano River syndicate in Panama which he claimed to be a $1,000,000 corporation. This announcement was made today through the office of States Attorney Robert E. Crowe who last night received word of the arrest of Koeretz at Halifax, N. S., where he has lived since his disappearance. He was arrested on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Koeretz, with $2,000,000 in cash in a hand bag, disappeared eleven months ago, leaving his family and other relatives with nothing more than worthless receipts or certificates in his Bayano River.

Maintained Poise
Koeretz, in Halifax, had assumed the poise and popularity which made him a favorite here, and with which he cultivated many of his clients. Arriving at Brookfield, a suburb of Halifax, he purchased at $15,000 home and improved it to a value of $35,000 and named it "Pinehurst."

"I'm a retired business man," he told his new friends, who knew him as Lou Keyte. He spent money lavishly. His suavity and generosity brought many friends, to whom he explained that he was in poor health and had been advised to move to Nova Scotia.

Koeretz, no longer the smooth shaven, horn rimmed, bespectacled swindler, as police circulars described him throughout the world, grew a beard explaining it was necessary to cover a scar which resulted from an infected ear.

He Worked Fine Game
Koeretz drew hundreds of this city's wealthiest families to him and he was not over-ambitious apparently to accept their money for investment in his oil deals, often refusing to accept payments or cash of close friends who at times begged him to "let them in on

Story Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Tuscola, Ill., Nov. 24.—The story of the shooting of Sherman Denny on the night of May 17 as coming from the lips of Leo Benskin, now on trial with Harley and Leonard Campbell, charged the murder, was told on the witness stand Monday morning by T. N. Venus, of a Chicago detective agency testifying for the state. Venus was placed in a cell next to Benskin for three days. Venus said that Benskin told him that he, Benskin, was in jail for the murder of Denny; that whenever Mrs. Benskin came to town Denny insulted her, and that he with Harley Campbell, Ray Philpott and Ed Dietrick went to the Denny home that night to talk to him about it.

According to Benskin's story as related by Venus, Denny hit Benskin over the head with a gun. Campbell then interfered and Denny shot him. Campbell then took the gun away from Denny and shot Denny. Venus said that Benskin admitted belonging to the Ku Klux Klan and that the other men involved were also members. Benskin told Venus that he understood the Klan would give aid in the trial.

Amboy Man Was Fined
$1000 in County Court

Lem B. Searls of Amboy was fined $1000 and costs on each of two counts for violation of the prohibition laws by Judge John B. Crabtree in county court this morning. On an information filed by State's Attorney Mark C. Keller, the court assessed fines of $500 and costs each on charges of manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor. Searls was arrested at his home in Amboy Wednesday evening of last week following a raid in which considerable liquor was said to have been found. Arrangements were being made for the payment of the fine. Because of the defendant's advanced age and physical condition, the state's attorney recommended the waiver of a jail sentence.

ONE DEAD TWO WOUNDED SUNDAY
IN GUN BATTLECicero Cafe Scene of Chicago's Latest Gang Outbreak

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 24.—One man is dead, two others are seriously wounded, probably fatally, and another believed shot, are the result of a gun battle yesterday morning in the Hawthorne Inn roadhouse at Cicero.

Eddie Tancil, owner of the resort, former pugilist, was shot to death by Myles O'Donnell and James Doherty, alleged gangsters and beer runners, according to the police.

Lee Klimas, former saloonkeeper and patron of the roadhouse, was shot through a lung. He was a noncombatant, police said.

Doherty escaped, but is believed wounded.

The shooting started at 11 o'clock when Tancil entered his cabaret. O'Donnell and Doherty had waited for him all night there, according to reports.

From the Inn the gunmen moved to the street where Tancil and O'Donnell fell wounded together. Tancil died a few minutes later after telling his waiter, Martin Simet, to "get" O'Donnell, Simet said in his report.

Beer Runners' Feud
Simet jumped on O'Donnell after the latter had fallen, the waiter admitted to police.

Authorities look upon the gun battle as a feud between beer runners, they said.

State's Attorney Crowe announced that the fight resulting in Tancil's death would possibly be linked with the recent slaying of Dion Banion, Chicago gang leader and florist in a corner's inquest today.

Mrs. Tancil is held by the Cicero police pending a further investigation today. She was in the Inn when the shooting took place and witnessed the fatal battle, she said.

Another woman who was at the roadhouse and who was questioned was May McLain. Police said her story of the shooting and that of Mrs. Tancil did not coincide.

London, Nov. 24.—(By The Associated Press)—That the Egyptian crisis has been greatly eased by the resignation of Premier Zagloul Pasha is the view understood to have prevailed at an hour and a half's session of the cabinet called this noon to consider the Egyptian reply to British demands.

The indemnity of 500,000 pounds demanded by the British for the death of the sirdar was paid by the Egyptian government this morning.

The payment was accompanied by a note protesting against the British demands for evacuation of the Sudan of Egyptian troops and for withdrawal of all opposition to the wishes of the British government concerning protection of foreign interest in Egypt, which demands the note characterized as unjustifiable.

ANNUAL ROLL CALL
LEE COUNTY'S RED
CROSS IS NOW ONEx-Postmaster Hogan is in Charge of Drive in This County

The Red Cross annual roll call will occur during the present week. An invitation is given to every one to take a membership in this great humanitarian enterprise, which may well be called the Official Charitable Organization of the Government since it is in existence by virtue of Federal enactment. The wearing of the little Red Cross button indicates membership for the year 1925.

In each factory a committee has been appointed for the purpose of giving every employee an opportunity to join the Red Cross. To each business house has been sent a reasonable number of blank receipts with buttons, the aim being simply to allow every one to have an opportunity to wear the Red Cross membership badge by contributing at least the minimum amount, viz., $1.00 per person. In addition any one of the three banks are authorized to accept memberships and are prepared to provide you with receipts and the Red Cross button. William Hogan, ex-postmaster, is chairman of the Membership Committee, and his headquarters during the week will be at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Since 1881 the American Red Cross has administered more than $20,000,000.00 in disasters. After the January earthquake $10,000,000.00 was contributed for relief through the Red Cross. From July 1, 1917 to January 30, 1923, the American Red Cross spent nationally and through its chapters more than $163,000,000 in service to the men who wore the American uniform in the World War. The Red Cross provides a reserve nursing force of 40,000 trained nurses ready for any emergency. This is the work in which you may participate. Can you think of any better way of spending a dollar?

REPORT OF R.
I. GRAND JURY
READY TODAYMinisters of City Deplore Effort of Underworld Gang

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 24.—It is expected there will be a report tomorrow from the grand jury that has been investigating the murder charges sworn to by Anthony W. Billburg and George Holsapple, both under penitentiary sentence for killing John Connor, Looney in an underworld gun fight here two years ago, against four Rock Island business men—J. W. Potter, J. M. Coligan, Jacob Rammer and Thomas Haeger. The four men are alleged by Billburg and Holsapple with having taken part in the gun fight in which young Looney lost his life. All claim alibis.

Most of the time of the grand jury has been occupied by hearing witnesses called by Billburg and Holsapple, both of whom were underworld leaders in Rock Island for many years. The defense has summoned only a few witnesses.

Billburg was ordered from the part of the court house occupied by grand jury after he had been accused of attempting to intimidate prospective witnesses.

Rock Island ministers in their Sunday sermons yesterday deplored the final effort of the remnants of the dislodged local underworld to besmirch business men who had been instrumental in ridding the city of vice and crime and predicted there would be emphatic resentment if the discredited former underworld leaders made another attempt to regain control of the city government, whose undisturbed favor it enjoyed until the citizenry revolted.

LABOR FEDERATION

IN ITS CONVENTIONAttitude on Many Vital
Questions Will be Decided

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 24.—(By The Associated Press)—The American Federation of Labor convention turned to its most important business today as it entered the second week of activity.

Committee recommendations on political activity, foreign affairs, and international labor relations were among those ready for consideration. The committee on the report of the executive council voted last night to accept without amendment the special report submitted to the convention last Thursday recommending adherence to a non-partisan political policy and maintenance of the campaign machinery set up in the general elections.

At the same time the committee on resolutions approved a final report in which two declarations in favor of adherence to a labor party were rejected. A resolution declaring against any participation in agencies established by the league of nations or the world court brought international relations before the delegates.

Divide on World Court

Previous conventions have declared in favor of the world court but spokesmen of the International Seamen's Union introduced a resolution asking condemnation of the league, basing their opposition on the ground that its agencies sought to curb advancement in international relations governing seamen's codes.

Two resolutions asking reestablishment of trade relations with soviet Russia also were before the committee.

Under a special order of business voted Saturday, the report of the resolutions committee will go before the gathering immediately after the opening of the morning session.

A short meeting of the executive council Sunday named a delegation of six to officially represent the American federation in the convention of the Pan-American federation in the convention of the Pan-American Federation of Labor opening at Mexico City, Dec. 3.

President Samuel Gompers will head the delegates which also includes Secretary Frank Morrison, vice president William Green, Matthew Woll and Martin Ryan and John P. Frey, officer of the International Moulders Union of North America and editor of the Moulders Journal.

CUT THROUGH CEILING AND
THEN TO ROOFCollapse of Chimney
Prevented Wholesale Delivery

Two prisoners escaped from the Lee county jail Sunday evening about 6:30 by cutting through the roof at about the same spot where several prisoners had been effected. Charles Smith, colored, who two weeks ago was arrested at Forrest Park as being held for the theft of Fred Farnum's Hudson coach, a former chef, is still at large. Robert Boysum, 17, awaiting action of the grand jury on a forgery charge, was the second prisoner to gain his liberty which lasted only a brief time.

Police and sheriffs of the surrounding country were notified and furnished with descriptions of the prisoners. Deputies went to the home of Robert Boysum, northeast of Polo late last night, believing that he might be home. About 1 o'clock this morning his parents delivered him over to Sheriff Risley at the jail and he again in custody. He told the sheriff that he walked to Polo on the Illinois Central tracks.

Hope to Get Smith.

Smith was still at large at noon today but Sheriff Risley had come in possession of information which led him to believe that the escaped prisoner would be in custody late tonight. A pair of heavy pliers believed to have been passed in through a window in the rear of the jail were used in prying away two layers of sheet steel and the wooden ceiling, giving them an entrance to an attic over the main ward. They then tried the mortar from between the bricks of an abandoned chimney, which now serves as a ventilating stack, and when they made their break for freedom, the chimney collapsed. The noise of the falling brick is believed by Sheriff Risley to have frustrated the intentions of several other prisoners to make their escape.

Pulled Hose into Opening
A 50 foot length of garden hose has also been pulled in to the small opening to be used by the prisoners in sliding down from the roof. This plan was abandoned by the crash of the brick ventilator, and Smith is said to have jumped from the roof, an Bowsum slid down a drain pipe.

Prisoners who were immediately locked in their cells, joked to the deputies about the "tissue paper jail." Some of the prisoners are said to have stated that work was started Saturday noon and continued through Sunday.

Red Letter Day For Eastern Star

Beginning at 4 o'clock Friday a special meeting was held for initiation of the present officers putting on the work followed in the evening by an exceptionally fine meeting. The guests of honor were the Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Dorothy Chapter, who exemplified the work in the evening. They were Mrs. Mark Brown, Acting Worthy Patron; Glen Coe, Worthy Patron; Secretary, Mrs. Alice Anderson; Treasurer, Mrs. Gertrude Youngman; Conductress, Mrs. Pearl Rickard; A. Conductress, Mrs. Emma Eichler; Chaplain, Mrs. Margaret Hintz; Marshal, Mrs. Sophia Dysart; Organist (Honorary) Mrs. Louis Cooling; Adah, Mrs. Will Ware; Ruth, Mrs. Cora Leak; Esther, Mrs. May Keller; Martha, Mrs. Edna Quick; Electa, Mrs. Florence Williams; Warder, Mrs. Carrie Coe; Sentinel (Honorary) Eunice Petrie.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS— Be Prepared.

If you are to give a party have your silver, china, glassware and linen all counted and ready the day before so that you have only to arrange it the day of your party.

Wash Separately.

Wash each piece of cut glass separately in warm water and ammonia and rinse and dry at once.

Keep Kettle Dry.

When the teakettle is not in use it should be emptied and allowed to dry.

Rinse Bottle.

As soon as you have removed milk from a bottle rinse it with cold water and leave it filled until you are ready to wash it in hot soap suds.

Turn Mattress.

If you wish to get the best possible wear from a mattress turn it end for end one day and over sideways the next when you make the bed. This way the wear will be evenly distributed.

Soften Candles.

When a candle is too large to fit into the candlestick, hold the end in hot water a few seconds. This will soften the wax and the candle may easily be pressed into the required space.

Delicious Dessert.

A delicious and easily prepared dessert is made of canned pineapple cut in small pieces, put in sherbet glasses and covered with custard and meringue.

Social at Wildcat School Nets $85.12

A most successful basket social was held at the Wild Cat school Friday evening. $85.12 was realized from the sale of baskets, candy and fish pond. The children gave a most delightful program which was greatly enjoyed. A hearty spirit of co-operation was shown by patrons and friends.

HIGH COLLARS—

Upstanding collars are frequently fashioned from a scarf folded twice about the neck with the ends hanging down the back. The high collar is undoubtedly less becoming than the lower one, but it is every fashionable and featured on the very smartest gowns.

LADIES' AID TO MEET WEDNESDAY—

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Grace Evangelical church will meet Wednesday afternoon at the church. As there is much work members are requested to arrive early.

Menus for a Family Tested by SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Cereal cooked with dates, hash, crisp whole wheat toast, orange marmalade, crumb cake, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of oyster soup, toasted crackers, celery and cabbage salad, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, fruit tapioca, milk, tea.

Dinner—Onion soup, roast pork, baked potatoes, sweet potato apples, apple sauce, pear salad, oatmeal bread, jellyed prunes, plain cookies, milk, coffee.

The hash is made with the meat left from the night before roast. The cereal, hash, toast, marmalade and milk may be served to children under six years of age.

The crumb cake is a concession to father.

The fruit tapioca used as the luncheon dessert was suggested as the dinner dessert the night before but the recipe was not given. As this is a nourishing and a bit out of the ordinary dessert it is repeated for the purpose of giving you the recipe.

Children under 10 years of age should not be allowed to eat the roast pork and sweet potato apples for their dinner. The soup is made with a meat stock and is very nourishing.

Crumb Cake.

Two cups flour, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves, 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Mix and sift flour, sugar and spices. Rub in shortening. When crumbly take out one cup. To remaining mixture add sour milk with soda dissolved in it. Mix well and put into a buttered and floured shallow pan. Sprinkle with crumbs and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven. The amount of salt depends on the kind of shortening used. Half butter and half lard require about one-half teaspoon salt while all butter needs less.

Fruit Tapioca.

One-half cup pearl tapioca, 2 1/2 cups cold water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 inch stick cinnamon, 3 whole cloves, 1 cup currant jelly, 1 cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1/2 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons blanched and shredded almonds, 1/2 cup seeded and chopped raisins, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Let tapioca stand in cold water overnight. Cook in same water until clear. After the boiling point is reached cook over hot water with the spices and salt. When transparent remove cloves and cinnamon and add jelly, grated orange rind and juice, nuts and raisins. Cook five minutes and remove from the fire. When cool stir in vanilla. Serve with thin cream.

CAUSE FOR THANKFULNESS—
By Florence Riddick Boys.

Bold, bleak November winds may blow.

We know not whence nor whither—Indoors the cheering fire, adown, Cracks cordially "Come hither!"

Harsh winter, like a chestnut burr, Meets us with sharp resentment; But the inner hidden heart of her Is full of deep contentment.

What though in worldly stress and strain Men buffet one another?

Down deeper than their greed for gain Lies loyal love of brother.

And though the earth seem stern and old And bare,

'Tis only in the seeming From human hearts, all warm and fair,

Is wholesome kindness gleaming.

So all is well, and life is love, No matter where we roam dear,

Social at White Temple School

The White Temple school, taught by Miss Lena Bowers, held a basket social Friday evening, Nov. 21, which proved to be a decided success.

The school was filled to overflowing, the neighbors and surrounding community showing a splendid interest and co-operation with their school.

The program, consisting of numerous recitations, songs and dialogues given by the pupils, also a vocal solo by Miss Eberly of Dixon, and comic vocal duets by Miss Mary Alice Price and Miss Viola Bowers from Mount Morris College, was especially enjoyed.

The proceeds from the baskets and soose, amounted to $60.

Benefit Concert Sunday, at Theater

Next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 30, at 2:30 o'clock at the Dixon Theater, a benefit program is to be given for the benefit of the Community Nurses' Fund, at which time Mrs. John G. Ralston, and Mrs. Douglas Harvey, better known in the musical world as the Reynolds Sisters, will appear in the delightful and appealing opera, "Hansel and Gretel." Appearing with the Reynolds Sisters will be the great Tremonti, Madame Johanna Hess-Burr will be the accompanist for the Reynolds Sisters. The price for the concert has been placed within the reach of all and there is no doubt that the theater will be packed to the doors to hear the exceptional program at moderate prices.

Glen Dillard Gunn in The Chicago Tribune:

"Kubelik had the assistance of the Misses Pauline and Lucile Reynolds, who offered a group of four duets for soprano voices by Goring-Thomas, Dalcroze and Burr-Reynolds. These young women sing with much charm and grace of style and with a perfection of vocal technique that reflects great credit on their schooling. Particularly attractive was their interpretation of 'Le Coeur de Ma Mie' of Dalcroze, a dainty bit of melody typically French, and delivered with exquisite lightness. If the salient quality of the art represented by the Misses Reynolds is charm and refinement of interpretative style, they are by no means obliged to rest their appeal to the public on this ground alone. Their voices are so fresh and vital and so perfectly suited to one another that the public's cordial reception of their efforts is easily explained. Their teacher, Mrs. Johanna Hess-Burr supplied faultless piano accompaniments."

Messages were received from Mrs. Dorothy Law, P. W. M. and Mrs. Nellie Ayers, who were unable to be here.

Six Past Patrons, Adolph Eichler, Mark Keller, Mark Brown, James Knox, Lee Reed, Louis Cooling formed an escort for the Past Matrons as they entered, presenting each with a beautiful flower. "Mums" were used for decorations, and palms making the room more beautiful. The work was done in a most able manner by the Past Matrons and Patron, and many compliments were given these past officers on their work.

Besides the list of officers, the following guests were present: Mrs. Florence Lowell, Grand Lecturer of O. E. S., of New London, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cooling, Past Worthy Matron and Past Worthy Patron of Dorothy Chapter were here from Chicago. Also other guests from Rochelle, Ashton, Franklin Grove and Mendota.

Mrs. Lee Reed presided at the piano, with Mrs. Kittle Ballou singing delightful numbers. An Ode to the Past Matrons was sung by Mrs. Ballou which was greatly enjoyed.

Miss Ruth Mossholder and Miss Eva Peterson with their most charming voices sang throughout the initiatory work, making the work more impressive and beautiful.

A presentation speech by the Worthy Patrons of Dorothy Chapter, Walter Wright Trautman, on the new Electric Signet, which was installed at the time was of great interest and given our chapter great praise for the work it had done in securing this signet.

An another address given by Past Patron Glen F. Coe, congratulating the officers on the work that had been done this year was splendid.

Mrs. Florence Lowell delighted the members with her address, being encouragement and cheer with her. A very great treat was also had in Mrs. Lester Wilhelm giving a number of beautiful songs in her most charming manner, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Bishop.

At the close of the meeting Miss Alma Moeller with chosen words presented Mrs. Florence Franks, Worthy Matrons of Dorothy Chapter with a lovely Console Set which was responded to by her most graciously.

About 200 members and visitors were present. A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening. Tables being handsomely decorated in

THE LATEST IN HEN PARTIES.

The "hen parties" of current slang and the "hen parties" of a department of agriculture home demonstration club in Anson county, North Carolina, are two different affairs. In the latter, North Carolina farm women are practicing practical co-operation in marketing their poultry.

Chicken raising on most farms has long been regarded as the farm wife's special field, from which she derived her "pin money," and it was therefore up to her to do the work and get the products sold as best she could. That best was not always very profitable or simple.

Then the Anson county club, with the help of the local federal home demonstration agent, devised the marketing scheme referred to. A list was made of every woman in the county who had hens for sale and the number available. Community meetings were held at which club members were instructed in dressing, packing, making out bills, and other selling details. Each community was assigned to a special time for its shipment to the county market center. Wednesday of each week was to be "dressing day." Thursday was "packing day."

As each community's turn came, the women assembled at a central place, bringing their hens. Everybody helped with the work of killing, picking, and, after the hens had been cooled overnight, packing in barrels. A lot of waste energy was eliminated and more efficient methods introduced by this community co-operation.

People enjoyed working together in this way. Profits from farm hens became tangible. Orders for other products—butter, eggs, pickles, etc.—began to come in addition to those for dressed chickens.

The whole demonstration helped to prove the value of co-operation in marketing for small farmers as well as for those who have larger farms and who specialize in fruit growing or dairying. The farmer has been much criticized in the past for his inefficient marketing methods. He and his wife are improving in this.

FALLING.

Probably not more than one person in ten would take a ride in an airplane if they had the chance. Falling is what they fear. It's a natural fear, dating back to the baby's catastrophes in learning to walk and the child's pain from falling out of a tree.

Flying will never become popularized until the danger of falling is almost entirely removed. Speed is the goal now. Safety will be, later when planes will primarily be more than military machines.

ATTENTION: CRITICS OF THE PRESS.

The other day, says the Publishers' Auxiliary, Edgar T. Cutter, superintendent of the central division of the Associated Press, told students at the Medill school of journalism in Chicago that "discoveries in the field of science and other worthwhile efforts of men and women can form the basis of just as thrilling news stories as sensational happenings and the gruesome details of crime." By a happy coincidence, on that same day, the A. P. sent out over its wires the story of what promises to be an epochal event in American agriculture, the successful experiments of army aviators in weather control. From this, they say, it is only a step to scientific rain making.

It was interesting to see how the metropolitan papers handled the story. Almost without exception, they gave it page one position.

One paper commonly regarded as a "yellow journal," disregarding a sensational shooting affray, carried it under a five-column streamer headline, second in importance only to the leading political story of the day and the story of the British elections.

We mention this in passing for the benefit of critics of the American press who are fond of the statement that "our modern papers are terrible—nothing but crime and divorce and sensation in them."

A TARIFF BOYCOTT?

It is said that central Europe is proposing to boycott American goods in the hope of forcing a tariff reduction on cheap made goods from their territory. Just now they are selling to us great quantities of their wares, and doubtless they are making a good profit on them despite what our democratic friends have been suggesting is a "high" tariff imposed by Uncle Sam. It is said that Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary and Jugoslavia are in an anti-American tariff union for this purpose. They likewise accuse France and Belgium of oppressing them with high tariffs. Efforts are being made to get Roumania, Bulgaria, Italy and Germany to enter this union. It is possible that the Daves plan is promising to be so beneficial that these nations can act together, as they have not done since 1914. But Germany, at least, will doubtless want our trade as an outlet to her revival of industry, and if she is making money on it now she will probably desire to continue to do so. At any rate it is not likely that central Europe can get along as well without American goods as we can get along without theirs. No such threat will warrant us in sacrificing the protective principle.

GOLD.

Our "gold peril" is nearing its end, bankers say. They mean, the great flood of gold into the United States from abroad has been materially checked. Recently gold imports have been the smallest in nearly five years.

Economists hold that the presence of an abnormally large amount of gold in a country tends to inflate prices. Accordingly most of us, not having any of the gold, will say, "Ship it all back."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWIN

by Olive Roberts Barton
A RIDDLE WITHOUT A BODY

"What's that? What's that?" called the Fat Man who had been dozing in Mrs. John's rocking chair.

"Dear me," said the Riddle Lady. "I'm sorry the Fat Man of Bombay isn't here to hear the next riddle. I do think he might guess it."

"What's that? What's that?" called the Fat Man who had been dozing in Mrs. John's rocking chair on the front porch of the House That Jack Built.

"I was just saying," said the Riddle Lady, "that you should be here to guess my next riddle."

The Fat Man straightened his turban and fixed his ash and knocked the ashes out of his long pipe. Then he waddled down to the orchard where the Twins and Daddy Gander and all the Mother Goose people were waiting.

"All right! I'm here now," said the Fat Man sitting down cross-legged on the grass.

"This is the riddle," said the Riddle Lady.

"Poke a boot! I see you! Please don't mind if I stare: When I see a hole I must poke my head through."

Like Aunt Sally Anne at the Fair.

"My neck is so weak that it waggles about, And my head is tied on with a string."

And I haven't a body, which is, without doubt,

A surprisingly singular thing."

"Hold on! Hold on!" cried the Fat Man. "No fair using hard words. What does that mean?"

"Singular means queer," said the Riddle Lady.

"Well, why didn't you say so?" said the Fat Man.

"It wouldn't rhyme properly if I did," said the Riddle Lady.

"My goodness! It's a riddle! I demand of Old Lady Banberry Cross. 'Why don't you go on?'"

"I forget where I was, now," said the Riddle Lady looking over her paper. "Oh, yes, here it is. Third verse:

"I keep you as snug as a bug in a rug, I fasten your clothes and your coat. The first part of my name (now you'll have to think hard) Has something to do with a goat."

"Fat folk and sneezes and clothes wringers tight, Are the things I most shrinkingly dread. If I'm careless and don't hold with all of my might, Pop! I'm ruined, for off goes my head."

"It sounds like the Queen in Wonderland," said Solomon Grundy.

"Just exactly. She was always 'offing with people's heads.'"

"Well," said the Fat Man of Bombay, "I've thought of everything from lamps to limpets. I don't know what it is."

"Hooray!" cried Nick. "I know! It's a button."

"How in the world could I ever guess that?" cried the Fat Man. "I don't wear buttons. I haven't such a thing about me!"

"Did you sneeze them off?" asked Nancy.

And everybody laughed so loud and so long that nobody noticed what Nick's prize was—an I forgot to ask.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN
PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT
CONTINUED

I had a little talk with Ruth Burke over the telephone today. I have never heard her voice sound so happy.

I wonder if you have also found out, Leslie, that people can seldom disguise their voices in ordinary everyday conversation. Instinctively they will drop into the raspy cadences of unhappiness, or the pathetic hollowing of grief that suits their mood.

When a person is happy his voice sounds full and resonant and there is a lilt in it that always strikes the ear with a pleasantness.

There, you didn't think I was as analytical as that, did you dear? Perhaps I am learning some of it from you, but most of all I am learning it through Mrs. Atherton, whose own voice changes almost from hour to hour with her moods, and from the people who come to me for positions. I can almost always tell whether they really need the position or not. It is easier to tell from their voices if they need the jobs than it is to tell if they are capable of filling them.

Ruth always had a pathetic minor tone in her voice after Harry went away. I think it was from her that I first began to notice the difference that happiness or grief made in voices.

Ruth told me more in detail the same surprising news she wrote to you. It seems that Harry Ellington's sister was young enough to have been Harry's daughter. They did not have the same mother.

Strange, isn't it, that after all that Harry had done to Ruth, after he had almost broken her heart he was sure of her loyalty and forgiveness, so sure that he could leave to her as a kind of legacy this girl.

Ruth, of course, wants the girl to stay with her. Says that she is the sweetest young woman she has ever known. She would like to have her stay with her as her younger sister, but Zoe, that's the girl's name, is quite independent and wants to do for herself.

This one thing which Harry Ellington did may offset some of the trouble he made for others. He seemed determined that his sister should have the best education possible and when she found her brother whom she had always thought men, had left nothing, she tried to put this learning to some good use.

"As soon as I found that she spoke French so well," Ruth said, "I immediately thought of Leslie and little Jack, for Leslie will have to be looking out for a governess for him very soon."

It rather made me smile to think of Jack who can as yet barely master the words "mother" and "dad" learning French. I said something of this to Ruth and she replied seriously that every child should learn a foreign language before he learned his own. She was quite convincing and I'm going over to her house tonight as you suggested and look the girl over. If I think she is all that, Ruth thinks she is I will send her over to you with Mrs. Atherton. She might be a great help to you as companion and social secretary until our little daughter makes her appearance on the scene.

Milestones of Service

THIS rioting, pushing, fast-stepping age of ours, with all its complexity, concentration and achievements, never could have attained its present development had it not been for petroleum and the long list of useful products which stem from this one widely distributed raw material.

Today, when almost everything we do, from the felling of trees to the keeping of accounts, is accomplished with mechanical assistance, the refining of crude oil and the compounding of the numberless products derived from this base is one, if not the most essential of all industries.

From crude petroleum come the most readily procured, best and cheapest lubricating oils and greases, and from the same source we get gasoline, the most economical, most mobile and most compact source of power yet discovered.

In the upbuilding of this great industry the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a pioneer; an advanced worker on the forefront of progress.

Today, skillful, highly trained men working with every facility which science, or their own ingenuity can suggest, are striving to perfect still further, the scores of useful products going to the public under the brands of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Throughout the ten middle western states in which this company maintains distributing facilities, is an ever-growing organization working, building to insure every person in the territory getting standardized, superior quality petroleum products he needs, when and where he wants them.

And always the company is looking forward, building and training for the years to come.

Office boys of thirty years ago are Directors of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) today—office boys of today are being schooled, trained and developed for places on the Board thirty years from now.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud of the record it has made in keeping ahead of the times, and believes that each progressive step has been marked by a milestone of service to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

TITLE GOES TO MAROONS ONLY UNDEFEATED TEAM

Had Three Ties, But All Other Big Ten Team Lost Game

Chicago, Nov. 24.—(By The Associated Press)—Tossed about the Western Conference in great abandon until the final games of the schedule found four teams battling for it, the "official" football champions finally rested Saturday with the University of Chicago Maroons. Despite three tie games Chicago emerged the only Big Ten school which had not suffered a conference defeat.

The Maroons reached the peak of their perfection two weeks ago when they battled the University of Illinois to a 21-21 tie in the game that turned the Illinois away from what previously had appeared as a sure thing for a conference defeat.

That it had sapped much of Minnesota's strength to down Illinois was evidenced Saturday when the Gophers were defeated 16-0 by Valderbilt.

Iowa Springs Surprise
Continuing the season of marked reverses of predictions, Michigan succumbed to Iowa 9 to 2 in a tilt that would have given the winner a tie for conference glory had Chicago been defeated. The Hawkeye victory tied Illinois for second place and sent Michigan to fourth.

Purdue, dedicating her new stadium Saturday, defeated Indiana for fifth place in the conference ranking.

Minnesota, with one victory and two defeats landed in sixth place. Seventh place was a triple tie of Ohio State, Indiana and Northwestern with one win and three losses each. Wisconsin failed to win a conference game although tying two.

Northwestern, out of the cellar for the first time in three years, greatly improved the playing of Ralph Baker, played the national title—claiming Notre Dame eleven to a standstill here Saturday. The South Bend team added a Northwestern scalp to those at Army, Princeton, Georgia Tech, Nebraska and Wisconsin by a margin of 13-6, remaining the only big school seven in the country not defeated or tied.

"Red" Grange emerged champion point scorer of the Big Ten despite an injured shoulder that kept him out of the final game. By making 13 touchdowns he piled up 78 points, one more than Rockwell of Michigan, scored by ten touchdowns, one field goal and 14 kicks for points after touchdowns. Baker of Northwestern was third high man with sixty points.

THREE FIELD GOALS GAVE AURORA GAME

All Breaks of Sunday Game Went to Aurora Gang

The Dixon Legion lost to the Aurora Legion Sunday afternoon by a score of 9 to 0. Three field goals, the first being registered in the first minutes of play, netted the count for Aurora. Repeated attempts were made to rip open the Dixon line but these were unsuccessful and Aurora could not put over a touchdown despite the fact that they fared the better of the two in the breaks of the game. Fumbling of the ball at some stages was costly for Dixon and the running was bad which was another advantage in Aurora's favor.

A fair sized delegation of fans accompanied the team to Aurora and the crowd which turned out to see the two teams clash was limited in size.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Sullivan, a new back field recruit, who has asked for an opportunity to show his "stuff" was given that opportunity by Coach Risley and proved a veritable whirlwind. On running, passing and backfield work in general, he was a wizard. He may appear in the Thanksgiving game with Elgin on Turkey day.

The Auroras outweighed Dixon several pounds and in the first half, did their strongest playing. Dixon appeared weak at the opening but came back strong after three points had been registered against them by a goal kick in the first three minutes of play, and worked hard for the remainder of the contest.

DIXON HIGH IN EASY WIN OVER MT. MORRIS SAT.

Visitors Outclassed in the Game With Bowers' Classy Team

The Dixon high school football team had a walk-away Saturday when they defeated the Mt. Morris high squad by a score of 45 to 6. Coach Bowers used practically all of his second string of players with a few of the first squad being sprinkled through the game to pilot the seconds. In Kable and Johnson, the outstanding stars for Mt. Morris, the visitors had a good team, but they were unable to cope with Dixon, being outweighted and outplayed.

Coach Means of Mt. Morris charged almost everything that is chargeable against the officials and at the close of the game ran out on the field with fists clenched, threatening Coach

Bowers. Early in the second half, Referee Furr warned the Mt. Morris coach that unless he refrained from coaching his team from the side lines as he had done up to this time that penalty would be inflicted and ordered him to the visitor's bench where he remained until the finish.

"Wink" McReynolds stood out as the star for Dixon and played through almost the entire game, making five touchdowns and kicking one goal. O'Malley and Krug each registered a touchdown and Dixon registered a safety which accounted for their 45 points.

As the second period drew to a close, Alters, giant full back for Mt. Morris uncorked a long pass to Shook which netted a 35 yard gain and put the ball over the line for the visitors only points. Kable was effective on end runs and made long gains, but Mt. Morris appeared to be unable to gain ground when it was most essential and lost the ball repeatedly.

Harry Weinman at center for Dixon, showed some of the best form of the season in punting and repeatedly booted the ball back of the goal posts on kickoffs.

The lineup.
Mt. Morris—Shook, lb; Grady, lt; Plum, lb; Paul, c; Rittenhouse, D. Tracy, rg; H. Thacy, rt; Crowell, re; Johnson, qb; Kable, rbb; Grotfelty, lbb; Alter, fb.

PENNSYLVANIA U. FACES ONE MORE PERILOUS BRIDGE

Must Defeat Cornell to Remain at Top of the Eastern Teams

New York, Nov. 24.—(By The Associated Press)—Pennsylvania's impressive football team, tied by Penn State, but undefeated, has one more bridge to cross.

Pennsylvania will entertain Cornell on Thursday. Victory for the Quakers will not, however, prove them the strongest team in the east, but will permit them to lead the list in games won and lost due to a longer schedule than that attempted by Dartmouth.

The Hanover eleven with seven games won and one tied, played its last contest a week ago against Cornell, leaving Penn to lead the array this week with eight won and one tied. Yale held Dartmouth to a deadlock and Yale stands third in the list. Penn State, which marred Pennsylvania's record, has lost two games this season. Yale, having defeated Princeton and Harvard, is content without claiming a mythical championship.

Bucknell, by defeating Rutgers, finished the schedule a notch higher than the Jersey men, for while each won seven victories and lost only one, Rutgers was held to a 13-13 score by Lehigh.

LaFayette, twice conquered, dragged Lehigh down to the middle of the list last Saturday.

Big Ones Near Bottom
Near the bottom of a list of 24 leading colleges of the east are five institutions which have always been powerful contenders in gridiron warfare, as Cornell, Pittsburgh, Harvard, Brown and Navy.

Most surprising is the presence near the top of little Williams which defeated Cornell and lost one contest to Columbia.

Army and Navy, last of the football squads to settle long standing feuds for this year, will meet next Saturday at Baltimore, producing one of the most colorful spectacles known to the gridiron game and ending the eastern season.

On the holiday Cornell meets Penn. Brown and Colgate will meet at Providence, West Virginia and Washington & Jefferson at Morgantown. W. Va., Syracuse and Columbia at New York, and Pitt and Penn State at Pittsburgh. University of Vermont will journey to Milwaukee to face the sensational Marquette eleven which was stopped this year by Boston College, after three years of whirlwind victories.

Besides the Army-Navy duel Saturday, Notre Dame will meet Carnegie at Pittsburgh, Georgetown will oppose Fordham at New York and Boston College and Holy Cross will fight it out at Boston.

DODGES LOST SUNDAY GAME NEAR FINISH

The Dixon Dodges clashed with Mendota at Brown's Field Sunday afternoon and were defeated by a score of 9 to 0 in the last four minutes of play in the final quarter. A goal kick and an intercepted forward pass which resulted in a touch down, won for the visitors who up to this time had been held on several occasions when they threatened to score.

On two occasions, Mendota completed passes for more than 30 yards, taking the ball to within a few feet of the goal. The Dodges were defending, only to be held for downs a loss the ball. At one time the line was worked down to within a few inches of the goal line and the Dodge line held.

In the final period Mendota worked down to the 25 yard line and Spence, an old high school star, dropped a punt and booted it between the posts. Dixon started in with a determination score, and opened up a weak attack. One of these was intercepted and carried to within five yards of the goal and on the first line plunge over the line with but a few seconds left to play.

(By Murphy)

The Junior "B" gym class opened their basketball tournament Saturday morning with the biggest crowd on record in attendance and with all kinds of enthusiasm prevalent. The first game was won by the White Sox who ran up 7 points while the Blue Sox were blanked, making them bluer still. The Whites had practically a full house present while the Blues were short several players, but at that, put up a game struggle. Captains Austin of the Blue Sox and Wilson of the White were the main stays of their teams, being right on the heels of the ball most of the time. The Red and Black Sox pulled off the real battle of the morning with the playing about even all the way, but in the end the Blacks were fortunate in coming out with the big end of a 4-3 score. Both of these teams had plenty of players on hand all of whom were on the job all the time. Lebre of the Blacks and Dockery of the Reds did all of the scoring for their respective teams.

Cornhuskers	1	0	1.000
Cake Eaters	1	0	1.000
Wifelpoofs	0	1	.000
Hay Shakers	0	1	.000

The Junior "A's" also had a record breaking attendance at their class and basketball tournament Saturday morning when the first games in their contest started. Both contests of the morning were a great deal more interesting to watch than the scores indicate as both games were fierce struggles throughout. The Cornhuskers lead off by defeating the Wifelpoofs 10-8 but play had to go into an extra period in order to determine the winner as the regular time ended with a 6-6 tie. During this extra period the play was fast and furious, even the referee coming in for his share during this period of storm and strife. All players got in on the heavy work for both teams and the scoring spread out among quite a number of the boys.

The second game was pie for the Cake Eaters who secured 14 points to the Hay Shakers 3. The Hay

HOW MILK IS USED

Twenty cents out of every food dollar is spent for dairy products. Milk products are used in almost every dish included in the daily meal, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute.

Latest statistics prepared by the Bureau of Dairying of the Department of Agriculture show that 45.5 per cent of the American milk production, or almost one hundred billion pounds, is used directly in the form of milk. It is estimated that every man, woman and child consume on an average of 10 gallons of milk each year. This is an increase of eight gallons over the 1917 per capita consumption figures.

The nation is eating more butter as well as drinking more milk. Per capita consumption of butter averages around 16.5 pounds, while in 1918 the average was but 14.6 pounds. More than one-fourth of the yearly milk supply is made into butter, 23.6 per cent of this is turned out as a commercial product.

Home made butter is being relegated to the past. Since 1917 the output of farm made butter during the same period has decreased 27 per cent. During 1923 only 12.8 per cent of the 102,562,221,000 pounds of milk produced was turned into yellow butter paste.

Shakers were handicapped by the absence of several of their players but made a desperate attempt to hold their own but the odds were too great against them. The scoring in this game was also divided among a larger number than in the first tournament.

Several new members were signed up by the teams in both tournaments. The Blue Sox got Worley and Ford; The White Sox, Thompson; The Red

THANKSGIVING ONCE SCORNE IN THIS STATE

Not Made Subject of an Official Proclamation Until 1838

Springfield—Thanksgiving day, now generally observed over all the United States, was originally scorned in Illinois and was not made the subject of an official proclamation until 1838.

Most of southern and central Illinois had been settled by Kentuckians who regarded Thanksgiving as a Yankee holiday, and Yankees as queer individuals, addicted to tinkering of clocks and driving shrewd bargains. It is possible the colonies of Yankees, living quietly here and there, observed the day, but the large body of the population rather looked down upon them.

The first record of an official Thanksgiving proclamation appeared in the Chicago Democrat in the fall of 1838 and was signed by Governor Joseph Duncan. The proclamation was such a departure from the original custom in the state that the editor of the Sangamon Journal expressed some doubt as to the authenticity of the document, in a facetious editorial on the subject which ended with a reminder that pumpkins were necessary to the observance of the day—and would some reader have the kindness to send him one?

The only celebration of the day in 1838 on record is the story of the stag party held in a newly opened hotel in Springfield. The proprietor, having recently come from Boston, was eager to make the celebration a complete success, but his plans were spoiled at midnight when the hostess of the house appeared and ordered the guests to cease their noise. The difficulty was settled when the host and his guests seized what liquid refreshments were within reach and retired to the wash room.

Apparently the initial proclamation did not meet with much enthusiasm, for no more gubernatorial proclamations are on record until 1842. In this year the governor was influenced by the action of the Presbyterian state synod, which in 1841 had commended the observance of November 25 as a day of Thanksgiving to all of its churches. Governor Carlin's proclamation of 1842 was perhaps the strangest proclamation ever issued by a governor of a state. Whether because he thought a reason was necessary for a Thanksgiving proclamation or because he wished to offer an example of cause and effect, Governor Carlin first quoted the resolution of the synod, and then appended his own recommendation. Omitting the usual "Whereas" and "Now Therefore" he not to mention the reference to the great seal of the state of Illinois usually included in gubernatorial proclamations Carlin said:

"In conformity with the foregoing request, I, Thomas Carlin, Governor of the state of Illinois, do appoint the last day of Thursday of December next as a day of Thanksgiving throughout the state and request the inhabitants thereof generally, to meet in their respective houses of worship, there to return thanks to Almighty God for the king preservation and manifold blessings bestowed upon us as a people, and devotionally ask a continuance of his mercies, for the sake of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ."

This formally initiated the observance of Thanksgiving as it is known today. Early records tell of the first celebration of the day held in Beardstown when Thomas Beard, settler of the county, invited all of the country-side to feast with him. It was his custom to hold such a celebration at New Year's but partly out of respect for the gubernatorial proclamation, and partly because he wished to introduce a number of relatives that had recently joined him, he prepared a feast at which more than 80 settlers

New York—Fifth Avenue, America's most famous Main Street, is celebrating its hundredth anniversary. Fifth Avenue is the street on which New York holds its parades. It is the street on which women who "have nothing to wear" go shopping. It is the street on which all the George F. Babbitts of Gotham hold forth at corner-store layings and monument unveilings.

There is more window shopping done on Fifth Avenue than on any two streets in the world. The ladies, bless 'em, get ideas for dresses, cloaks and hats from Fifth Avenue windows for garments made at home or bought in cheaper stores.

gathered about the board. The celebration lasted until far into the morning.

York's mad rush as much as Broadway nor as much as Wall Street. Nor does it represent the great human drama of old races achieving new life in a new country, as the Bowery and other East Side streets do.

Fifth Avenue belongs to the country at large more than to New York.

It is the general belief that most of New York's suicides are girls. The majority of them are men, and quite a number of them are married men whose homes have been disrupted. In six months there were six suicides in West Twenty-ninth street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?

MONDAY, NOV. 24—Those born this day must beware of moods. You are just as capable as anyone, and if your work does not seem to be appreciated it is because you permit yourself to be sulky and those near you are afraid to approach you. Jealousy is often quite pronounced in those born this day and you must learn to bring true love you will have to love equally as true and faithfully.

The Well-Dressed Man
By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

Matched Shirt; Collar; Links
The Governor of a certain State who, in a speech to the assembled inmates at the penitentiary, began by saying, "I don't need to tell you how glad I am to see you all here," had the best intentions in the world. What he lacked was a sense of appropriateness to time, place and circumstance. Correct dress is based upon the same principle—it must befit the occasion. Town clothes and country clothes must each be kept in their place. Informal wear must not be assumed for formal use, nor vice versa.

There is an established code of etiquette about such things to which every well-bred man subscribes, just as there is a recognized form of address which makes the President of the United States, "His Excellency," or a Governor or a Mayor, "The Honorable." You cannot under dress from deportment. Good style is largely good manners. Good style means acquiescing in the judgment of the majority concerning what to wear and when and where to wear it. For example, it means never to appear without formal evening clothes when other men are wearing it.

Pleated-bosom shirts with colored stiff collars to match the body are a recent and noteworthy development of fashion. The pleated front is exclusively a town or business style. It has no place in country or sporting dress, being too formal and ornamental. It is now acquiring a widespread vogue, because men are tired of the plain bosom, worn for years, and demand "something different."

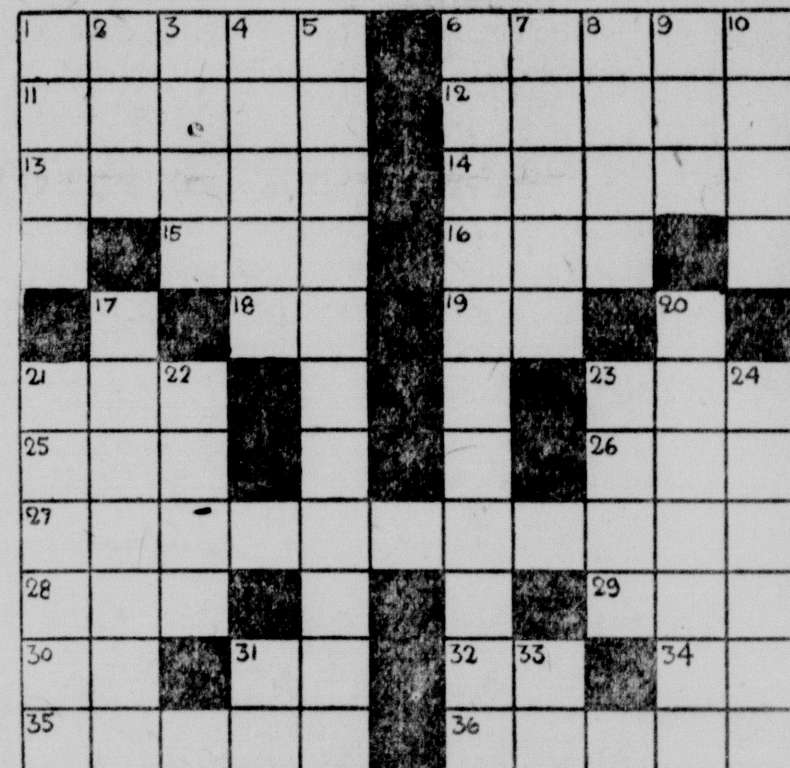

A very rich-looking shirt of this type is illustrated here. It has broad pleats and a pattern formed by bold, contrasting, zigzag stripes. These appear also upon the collar and the cuffs, which are of single thickness, starched and rounded at the corners. The accompanying scarf reveals a bright checkerboard design woven upon a dark background.

There is no set of cuff-links that will harmonize with every shirt. In former days, a man owned one pair, usually of gold, with his initials or monogram engraved upon the face. Now-a-days, The Well-Dressed Man possesses from half-a-dozen to a dozen sets of links in different-colored glazed enamels or semiprecious stones, such as light-blue, green, brown, purple, pink and so on. Thus, one can perfectly match the color of every shirt and obtain an effective and engaging change.

Dreams

each has its own MEANING

To be lonely and unhappy in a dream means that you will be happy and quite contented in wakened hours.

Dream records show that visions of unhappiness nearly always are followed by much happiness for the dreamer.

Interpretations
A very pleasant time is due for you if you see yourself visiting at the home of a friend.
Bad fortune is due for the dreamer who sees himself falling from a boat.

II—THE YELLOW BAND

CORRIGAN slung his pony's reins over a post and stepped on to the veranda of Jacobson's bungalow. His keen, gray eyes took in the lavishness of the interior decorations which lay behind the bright red sun blinds; sumptuous carpets, long chairs piled with cushions in bright leather covers; smooth walls, painted white and hung with trophies of the chase; a carved Moorish table with a silver box, open to show a lining of sandalwood; a Turkish hubble-bubble; a great standard lamp with a shade of Japanese silk. The odor of a soft, sickly perfume assailed Corrigan's nostrils. He snorted contemptuously and turned to where a native girl squatted in a far corner, rolling cigarettes with a rapidity that took the Englishman's breath away. So absorbed was she in her occupation, that she did not notice the broad figure in white duck until his shadow, cast by a tumbrel of tropical sunlight, fell across her knees.

She started and looked up. She gathered cigarettes, tobacco and papers into a piece of sack and thrust it behind her. One slender white tube escaped the folds and dropped to the floor at Corrigan's feet. He picked it up and examined it curiously.

It was as firm almost as if it had been turned out by a machine. As he let it revolve between his great fingers, he saw that the paper was of excellent quality, white except for a faint yellow ring at one end. He tapped it thoughtfully on his thumbnail and the girl rose suddenly to her feet—and snatched it from him.

She stood for a moment, her little form trembling with the fury of an enraged panther, then slipped suddenly through an open doorway, and was gone from his sight.

A Chinese boy, in white coat with pigtail tucked into a side pocket, appeared at a doorway.

"Where's the Tuan-Bear?" demanded Corrigan curtly, in Malay.

The boy spread out his hands.

"The Tuan-Bear eats the air," he explained apologetically.

"I see!" reflected Corrigan. He turned abruptly on his heel and went slowly down the short flight of steps to where his pony waited restlessly, lashing at tormenting flies with its unclipped tail. At the foot of the flight he paused.

"Tell him the Tuan Corrigan called," he said. "That's all."

He swung into the saddle and rode slowly toward the wire fence which divided his estate from Jacobson's.

As he reached the barrier, he turned his pony's head westward, noting the points where the stout posts had been pulled removed and cunningly replanted, so that his neighbor's newly planted rubber encroached more and more upon his own land. A dangerous look came into Corrigan's eyes. By a forlorn strip of virgin jungle which still fringed the railway line, where monkeys chattered and fought in the branches, he caught a group of Jacobson's coolies red-handed, and bore down on them boiling with righteous wrath. He sent them scattering in all directions, uttering guttural cries of mingled fear and protest.

A mandor who dozed under a red paper umbrella, with an oily yellow lining, woke to find the planter towering over him.

"Get up, you swine!" shouted Corrigan.

The Chinaman scrambled to his feet.

"Put back that fence where you found it, or, by heaven, I'll kick you from one end of the Kabun to the other!"

The man looked nervously over his shoulder, hesitating. Suddenly he caught the light in Corrigan's green eyes.

"Clear off my estate," he commanded. "Before I kick you off!"

Corrigan smiled broadly.

"You've pinched so much of my land, Mr. Jacobson," he told him, "that you can hardly complain if I stay on a bit of yours a few moments longer." His eyes blazed. "As for forcing me to quit, old son, I assure you you'd be a damn sight bigger fool than I think you are—to try to do it."

He continued calmly, staring until the other was forced to avert his gaze. "I looked in at your boudoir this afternoon to tell you two things. The first's a purely private matter. I caught five of your scoundrel tampering with my water supply early this morning. I thought you'd like to know the case is now in the hands of the district officer at Putatan. The second I was asked to transmit to you by the D. O. himself. There are rumors of a native rising which might prove serious. A gentleman, styling himself Zarriman, the Terrible and posing as a Mahometan prophet, or something of the sort, has succeeded in effecting a landing on this island and working up the tribes into a fanatical frenzy against the white settlers. As far as can be gathered, he has an extremely effective intelligence department and is kept supplied from some mysterious source with pretty accurate information as to our respective movements. Any information as to his movements or the identity of his agents will be welcomed by the commissioner."

Jacobson straightened himself in his saddle, his lower jaw working ceaselessly, as if he were chewing something.

"You had the damned effrontery to lay hands on my men?" he jerked out suddenly, emphasizing each word.

"I've more respect for my handy, old son. My watchman, acting under my instructions, took your damned rascals to justice."

Jacobson boiled.

"You dirty hound!" he spluttered and, spurring his mount, bore down on Corrigan, his heavy riding stock aloft.

The light of battle came into Corrigan's eyes. With a deft movement, he brought his pony round, ducked to avoid the descending stock, and sent Jacobson heading from the saddle, his riderless beast, with stirrups dangling, plunging madly toward the sea-shore.

Jacobson rolled over on to his back, sprawling ridiculously.

"You'll pay—for this, Corrigan!" he moaned.

"You'll have to get up pretty early in the morning if you hope to catch me napping," he assured him. He touched his pony's flanks. "And take my tip, Mr. Jacobson. Don't monkey with my wire! Here's my hand, if you want it. If you're a man—you'll take it while it offers; if you're a fool—you won't; but I fancy you'll live to be sorry for it."

Jacobson scrambled to his feet, knocking the dust from his breeches.

"I'll kill you, Corrigan!" he spat out venomously, his hand feeling for his hip pocket.

A single strand of wire showed between two stakes where the work of reconstruction was still in progress. Corrigan took it at a bound. He waved one hand aloft derisively, as Jacobson shot—and shot wide.

As he countered through his own trees, well wooded and set at regular intervals, he smiled strangely to himself.

Jacobson, white to the lips, paused at the door of his room to throw a silver box with a sandalwood lining at a black girl who sat in a far corner of the veranda, rolling white cigarettes with a faint yellow band at one end.

It occurred to Corrigan, as he laded hot water over himself from an enormous earthenware jar, that the quarrel between himself and his neighbor had been, to say the least of it, ill-timed. Any time of the day or night Zarriman and his posse of head hunters might swoop down upon the bungalows of these lonely whites, and he scarcely considered Jacobson big-hearted enough to bury the hatchet in an emergency. For every other reason but this, he felt profoundly thankful that he had brought the affair to a head.

BETTER FEEDING PAYS

BETTER FEEDING INCREASED PROFITS 60%

Over $500,000.00 extra profits can be made each year by dairy farmers through the employment of better feeding methods. This would mean a saving of about $111.00 for each of the four and a half million dairy farmers of the United States, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. The truth of this experiment is borne out by a feeding experiment carried on during the past year by the University of Minnesota.

Over a year ago the Dairy Division of the University purchased four average cows for which records were available of feed received, and milk and fat produced, covering two years for each cow. The cows received good care on the farm of the original owner but were not on a scientific feeding ration. The University immediately placed the cows on a feeding ration suitable for their needs. Within a year production per cow increased 36.7 per cent.

On the farm of the original owner the cows produced on the average of 4,682 pounds of milk containing 92.2 pounds of fat, the product per cow amounting to $87.36. The feed cost of $25.00 per year could be had by proper feeding.

FARM BUREAUS CONCENTRATED ON ONE IDEA

Definite Programs in View by All Big Organizations

Belleville, Ill.—Instead of pushing a wide variety of enterprises and projects, as was the case a few years ago, Illinois county farm bureaus is cooperating with the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, are now concentrating the forces on the work of carrying out definite agricultural programs for their respective counties. J. C. Spitzer, assistant state leader of farm advisers at the college said today at the annual meeting of the St. Clair county farm bureau.

This tendency is reflected in the fact that more farm advisers and farm bureau officials are planning definite agricultural extension programs now than at any time since organized extension work, as carried on by the agricultural college, started in the state, he said.

"In an effort to overcome the recent agricultural depression, many farm bureaus tried to satisfy all the demands made upon them by their members and as a result definite programs of work were forgotten," he declared. "Some farm bureau officials drifted into cooperative buying in an attempt to satisfy the demands for relief made upon them by members of their organizations; others thought that cooperative marketing would solve the problem, and still others thought that legislation was the only hope for relief. Others blamed transportation systems for the farmers' troubles, he explained.

"Many lines of activities were tried out by county farm bureaus and their officials in attempts to improve agriculture and help solve the farmers' problems. Some of these activities were successful, but many others failed and were a source of grief.

"Today, we find these organizations giving more thought to well planned and rather definite programs instead of trying to satisfy all the demands that are made on them. Farm bureau leaders and farm advisers are concentrating on a few major projects or lines of work."

Keeping the Telephone Alive

We have learned to depend on the telephone, in fair or foul weather, for the usual affairs of the day or the emergency of the night. Its continuous service is taken as a matter of course.

The marvel of it is that the thousands of thread-like wires are kept alive ready to transmit instantly the spoken thought. A few drops of water in a cable, a faulty connection in the wire maze of a switchboard or on the line, a sleet, rain or windstorm or the mere falling of a limb often jeopardizes the service.
